

No FEAR Act Annual Report for fiscal year 2014

Pursuant to Notification and Federal Employee Antidiscrimination and Retaliolation Act of 2002

Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

March 2015

Message from Richard Cordray

Director of the CFPB

Each day since the Bureau's existence, we have reinforced the value of our mission to help consumer financial markets work and to empower consumers to take more control over their economic lives. Now in our fourth year, we have achieved numerous successes demonstrating the difference we have made in the lives of consumers.

FY 2014 presented challenges to, and also identified opportunities for growth in, our Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Program. When we uncovered differences in employee performance ratings for FY 2012 and FY 2013, we corrected those issues and began to focus with additional rigor on our internal policies and practices that promote equal opportunity and fairness among employees. During FY 2014, I reaffirmed my commitment to ensuring that our talented and diverse staff is treated fairly and with respect and to enforcing the standards of fairness that CFPB expects of the companies and industries we regulate.

I am excited to announce in this year's report a recent organizational shift that I believe will help to address concerns about the Bureau's previous performance management system and issues raised by some employees in FY 2014. In FY 2013, CFPB officially launched its EEO Program with the opening of the Office of Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO Office). In November 2014, to further underscore the importance of equal employment opportunity and fairness at CFPB, I moved the EEO Office from being administratively housed within the Operations Division to my office, renamed it the "Office of Civil Rights" to reflect the internal- and external-focused civil rights compliance role it undertakes, and more closely aligned it with our Office of Minority and Women Inclusion under a new umbrella organization called the "Office of Equal Opportunity and Fairness." This new structure is intended to create greater synergy and alignment between the two functions. My full support is behind this new office and its programs, and I will be working to strengthen a valuable partnership between it and the entire Bureau.

I am pleased to present our Notification and Federal Employee Antidiscrimination and Retaliation Act of 2002 (No FEAR Act) Annual Report for FY 2014. It summarizes accomplishments in our evolving EEO program and our commitment to abide by all civil rights laws and merit systems principles and to promote accountability. The Office of Civil Rights' work in FY 2014 will pave the way for continued improvements in our EEO program during FY 2015 and beyond.

Sincerely,

1. Purpose of report

The No FEAR Act (Pub. L. No. 107-174) is intended to reduce workplace discrimination within the Federal Government by holding federal agencies more accountable. Section 203 of the No FEAR Act requires that, no later than 180 days after the end of each fiscal year, each agency submit a report to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate, the Committee on Government Reform of the House of Representatives, each committee of Congress with jurisdiction relating to the Bureau, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and the Attorney General of the United States. The Office of Personnel Management's (OPM) regulations implementing the No FEAR Act, 5 C.F.R. Part 724, Subpart C, also require the submission of this annual report to the Director of OPM.

The annual report must provide the following information:<sup>1</sup>

- The number of federal court cases, pending or resolved, arising under the No FEAR Act laws and the status and disposition of the cases;
- Judgment Fund reimbursements and adjustments to agency budgets to meet reimbursement requirements;
- The number and type of disciplinary actions related to discrimination, retaliation, or harassment and the Bureau's policy relating to appropriate disciplinary action;
- Year-end summary data related to federal sector EEO complaint activity;

- An analysis of trends, causation, and practical knowledge gained through experience and actions planned or taken to improve complaint or civil rights programs; and
- The agency's No FEAR Act training.

2. Background

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB or Bureau) is the nation's first federal agency focused solely on consumer financial protection. The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Pub. L. 111-203) (July 21, 2010) (Dodd-Frank Act) created the CFPB to protect consumers and to encourage fair and competitive consumer financial markets.

The CFPB's mission is to make markets for consumer financial products and services work for Americans—whether they are applying for a mortgage, choosing among credit cards, or using any number of other consumer financial products and services. CFPB helps consumer finance markets work by making rules more effective, by consistently and fairly enforcing those rules, and by empowering consumers to take more control over their lives.

The CFPB officially opened its doors for business on July 21, 2011, and is in its fourth year of operations. At the end of FY 2014, the Bureau consisted of 1419 employees and will continue to grow and mature to meet its important mission.

The Bureau has worked to build a human and physical infrastructure that promotes—and will continue to promote—transparency, accountability, fairness, and service to the public. That includes:

- Demonstrating a strong commitment to openness and utilizing the Bureau's website to share information on its operations;
- Recruiting highly-qualified personnel;
- Providing training and engagement opportunities for CFPB staff to improve skills, increase knowledge, and maintain excellence;
- Promoting equal opportunity in all aspects of employment including recruitment, hiring, compensation, performance management, awards, training, career development, and promotions; and

- Promoting diversity in the CFPB workforce and among its contractors.

The Office of Civil Rights, among other services, provides policy and technical advice to Director Cordray and senior leadership on civil rights compliance and manages the Bureau's EEO complaint process pursuant to 29 C.F.R. Part 1614. The Bureau's developing EEO Program works to ensure the EEOC's six essential elements of a model EEO Program<sup>2</sup> are incorporated into the fabric of the Bureau, thus supporting the goal of maintaining a discrimination- and harassment-free workplace for all.

Since the Bureau's inception, equal employment opportunity has been a stated value of CFPB and will continue to serve as a guidepost for its activities. The Bureau's Office of Civil Rights identifies and provides counsel on appropriate linkages of EEO goals to the goals supporting the CFPB mission and strategic goals, as well as the strategic goals of the Office of Human Capital (OHC) and the Office of Women and Minority Inclusion (OMWI); and works to further EEO accountability for the Bureau. The Office of Civil Rights also provides policy and technical advice to Director Cordray and senior leadership on civil rights issues, works to promote equality and fairness throughout the Bureau and in the Bureau's everyday business, and manages the Bureau's EEO complaint process.

During FY 2014, the Bureau conducted extensive internal review and data analysis to determine where improvements could be made in its culture and its EEO and diversity and inclusion programs. The results of these assessments are being used to establish priorities for program development and to drive positive change at the Bureau in support of EEO, diversity, and inclusion objectives.

The Inspector General of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System also conducted an audit of activities related to diversity and inclusion and complaint processing at the Bureau.<sup>3</sup> The report, issued on March 9, 2015, states regarding the 29 C.F.R. Part 1614 complaint process that:

<sup>2</sup> See EEOC, Management Directive 715 (MD-715). The six elements are (1) demonstrated commitment from agency leadership; (2) integration of EEO into the agency's strategic mission; (3) management and program accountability; (4) proactive prevention of unlawful discrimination; (5) efficiency; and (6) responsiveness and legal compliance.

<sup>3</sup> See Inspector General of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, CFPB Can Enhance Its Diversity and Inclusion Efforts, Report No. 2015-MO-C-002 (dated March 4, 2015) ("IG Report").

- “CFPB has policies and procedures for each of its employee complaint processes [e.g., EEO complaints].”
- The “processes give employees the opportunity to have their complaints heard, investigated, and redressed in a fair and equitable manner.”
- “CFPB adheres to several laws and regulations related to its OEEO [Office of Equal Employment Opportunity] and the processing of EEO complaints.”<sup>4</sup>

The report recommends that the Office of Civil Rights implement actions that would improve the Bureau’s EEO Program such as enhancing internal controls and auditing its complaint data, which the Bureau accepted and is implementing. As it continues to mature, the Bureau will continue to make a concerted effort to support a fair, equitable, and inclusive environment that is reflective of the consumers that we serve and incorporates EEO best practices into day-to-day operations.

3.2 Judgment fund reimbursements and budget adjustments

The Bureau neither made reimbursements to the Judgment Fund nor needed to adjust its budget to comply with No FEAR Act reimbursement requirements.<sup>5</sup>

3.3 Number of employees disciplined and discipline policy

During FY 2014, the Bureau did not discipline any employees for discrimination, retaliation, harassment, or an infraction of any provision of law covered by the No FEAR Act.

The Bureau is committed to maintaining a workplace that promotes professionalism and productivity and an environment that respects employees' dignity. It has established a "zero tolerance" policy for acts of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation. This policy has been relayed on numerous occasions since CFPB opened in 2011. Director Cordray re-issued the policy to Bureau employees in April 2014 (Appendix B) and information about the EEO program is readily available on the CFPB’s website<sup>6</sup> and its intranet. The Director also issues an annual No FEAR Act statement, a policy statement establishing CFPB as a harassment-free workplace, and an annual notice about whistleblowing protection. The Office of Civil Rights also stresses these anti-discrimination and anti-retaliation requirements with each new CFPB employee at new employee orientation and again to employees promoted to supervisory ranks.

<sup>5</sup> The Judgment Fund is used to pay court judgments and Justice Department settlements of actual or imminent lawsuits against the government. It is a permanent appropriation and is administered by the Judgment Fund Branch, which is a part of the United States Department of the Treasury, Financial Management Service. The No FEAR Act requires federal agencies to reimburse the Judgment Fund for personnel discrimination payments made in accordance with 28 U.S.C. §§ 2414, 2517, 2672, or 2677. CFPB will not be accessing the Judgment Fund because other sources of funds are available for these purposes. See Consumer Financial Protection Act, Section 1017.

In addition, all Bureau employees must abide by the 13th Principle of Ethical Conduct<sup>7</sup> requiring that employees adhere to all laws and regulations that provide equal opportunity regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, or disability, and have been informed about the Bureau’s conduct expectations through No FEAR Act and Core Competency trainings, various EEO and prohibited personnel practice posters, its No FEAR Act notice, all hands communications targeted to employees and managers, the Director’s weekly message to all employees, and a rotating NewsFeed on CFPB’s intranet.<sup>8</sup> The Bureau’s performance management process includes performance metrics for supervisors and managers related to promoting diversity and inclusion and initiatives are underway for further enhancing accountability through the performance management program and the Quarterly Performance Review (QPR) process. The Bureau’s Disciplinary and Adverse Action Policy reiterates these various directives by emphasizing that “engaging in discrimination, harassment, or other inappropriate conduct” is grounds for discipline, up to and including removal.

CFPB remains committed to disciplining and providing remedial training to any employee who fails to abide by these requirements.

3.5 Analysis of complaints

This subsection sets forth (1) an examination of trends and causal analysis for complaints and (2) practical knowledge gained through experience and actions planned to improve the Bureau's EEO Program.

3.5.1 Trends and causal analysis

Because the CFPB officially opened on July 21, 2011, and began reporting information related to FY 2012, it does not yet have a five-year perspective of EEO data related to complaint-filing trends. The Bureau is committed, however, to monitoring trends and implementing any necessary corrective measures as its EEO Program matures.

During FY 2014, the Bureau experienced an increase in the number of formal complaints filed compared to FY 2013 (from nine to 25). The 24 complainants<sup>9</sup> who filed formal complaints in FY 2014 represent 1.69 percent of CFPB's workforce, an increase of 1.02 percent compared to FY 2013 and higher than the midsize agency<sup>10</sup> average rate of 0.56 percent.<sup>11</sup>

The most frequently cited bases of discrimination in FY 2014 were race (17) and reprisal (16), which is similar to FY 2013 where age, race, sex and reprisal were equally the most frequently cited bases of discrimination.<sup>12</sup> The complaint filings in FY 2014 are largely consistent with government-wide trends. According to the EEOC FY 2012 Report, reprisal was the most frequently cited basis for discrimination claims and race was the third most frequently cited basis for discrimination claims. The Bureau's FY 2014 staff demographics with respect to minorities increased slightly relative to FY 2013 (453 of the 1342 employees or 33.71% of <sup>9</sup> There was one person who filed two complaints.

<sup>10</sup> Midsize or medium agencies are those with 1000 to 14,999 employees. EEOC's FY 2012 Annual Report on the Federal Workforce (August 2014) (EEOC FY 2012 Report), available at <http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/reports/fsp2012/index.cfm>.

<sup>11</sup> EEOC FY 2012 Report. EEOC has not yet issued a FY 2013 report.

<sup>12</sup> Although there were 25 formal complaints, there are more than 25 bases of discrimination alleged because a complainant may assert more than one basis.

employees in FY 2013 were minorities,<sup>13</sup> whereas 498 of 1419 or 35.09% of employees were minorities in FY 2014).

The most frequently raised issues in FY 2014 involved non-sexual harassment (14) and evaluation/appraisal (13). In comparison, FY 2013's most frequent complaint by issue was assignment of duties, which was identified in 33 percent of complaints. This is consistent both with government trends in which non-sexual harassment was the most cited issue,<sup>14</sup> and with the concerns raised about the implementation of the Bureau's previous performance management system. The Bureau will continue to educate the workforce on the EEO policies and monitor supervisors and managers diversity and inclusion efforts through the Bureau's performance management and QPR process. The Bureau recently mandated performance management and diversity and inclusion awareness training for all employees. The Bureau will continue to emphasize its zero tolerance for discrimination and harassment and administer discipline and/or adverse action to those who engage in discrimination, harassment or other inappropriate conduct.

In FY 2014, all EEO counseling and investigations were completed within permissible regulatory timeframes, and one Final Agency Decision (FAD) was issued untimely. Days in investigation averaged 214—an increase from FY 2013—caused by the increased formal complaint caseload compared to FY 2013.

The Bureau promotes early resolution of complaints and the use of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) as an option to its traditional administrative complaint processes and offers ADR at all stages of the complaint process. The commitment to ADR is communicated to employees through the intranet, training, and during individual meetings with parties seeking assistance from the Office of Civil Rights. Employees agreed to mediate in 17 informal cases and in five formal cases during FY 2014.

The Bureau will continue to monitor its complaint activity compared to government-wide activity and activity of agencies most similar to the Bureau. As the Bureau builds on its historical data, we will conduct trend analyses and, when warranted, determine approaches to respond to data that reveal barriers to equal employment opportunities.

3.5.2 Practical knowledge gained and action plan

The OHC and OMWI continue to assess the Bureau's workforce demographics to ensure the development of initiatives, policies, and training aligns with a model EEO program. The Office of Civil Rights, working collaboratively with OHC and OMWI, is building upon this foundation with data-driven assessments and a focus on ensuring compliance with all EEO legislative and regulatory requirements. Through this ongoing analysis, the Bureau will gain practical knowledge and make determinations on how best to address shortcomings as they are identified over time and how best to advance the needs of our workforce.

Based on an assessment of complaint activity, the EEO Program, and employee feedback in FY 2014, the Bureau learned of the importance of:

- Increasing employee awareness of EEO statutes and working with OHC and OMWI to ensure that the CFPB cultivates an inclusive work environment;
- Ensuring CFPB management is accountable for the success of the EEO program through transparency, by developing measurable EEO, diversity, and inclusion goals and objectives that are incorporated into divisional strategic plans, and through the performance assessment of supervisors and managers;
- Training supervisors and managers on leadership, management principles, communication techniques, legal compliance, and fostering diversity and inclusion;
- Ensuring that management officials understand the purpose and value of ADR;
- Continued communication of information and early intervention to help Bureau officials identify the issues and bases that may give rise to EEO complaints;
- Fostering constructive, open, continuous communication between employees and management to help resolve workplace conflicts at the earliest possible opportunity; and
- Monitoring performance evaluation data, continuing to raise awareness of performance management best practices, and adjusting Bureau policy and practices, as needed, to address harassment and evaluation/appraisal issues raised in a number of FY 2014 complaints.

The Bureau will incorporate the practical knowledge indicated above as it continues to build and staff the EEO program. We will focus on the following goals during FY 2015 and FY 2016:

- Continuing to incorporate the EEOC's six essential elements of a model EEO program to achieve greater program effectiveness;
- Continuing to process all informal and formal complaints and requests for ADR in compliance with 29 C.F.R. Part 1614 and EEOC Management Directive 110;
- Enhancing accuracy and efficiency of EEO complaint data monitoring, tracking, and reporting by procuring a commercial software system and establishing robust internal controls related to data tracking and monitoring;<sup>15</sup>
- Incorporating EEO best practices gained through the Bureau's coalitions with other Federal agencies, particularly financial regulatory agencies and other small- and medium-sized agencies;
- Obtaining certification from the Office of Special Counsel through its Section 2302(c) Certification Program;
- Collaborating with OHC to provide training to supervisors and managers that offers proactive approaches to resolving issues stemming from alleged violations of personnel policies and practices, including performance management;
- Leveraging internal communication channels to make EEO-related information available through the use of various media, including electronic, informational brochures, and individual and group training;
- Continuing to increase awareness about ADR as an option available in all phases of the complaint process and training management about its benefits;

- Reviewing feedback from employee surveys, exit interviews, listening sessions, and training to identify opportunities for improvement;
- Collaborating with OHC and OMWI to establish and administer affirmative plans that ensure the Bureau has a demographically diverse workforce reflective of the civilian labor force and address any identified barriers to full participation in employment opportunities and also work to ensure equal participation in CFPB programs once employees onboard;
- Briefing senior leadership on the state of the EEO program to reaffirm support for the program; provide awareness of issues and trends, systemic or otherwise; and to solicit input strengthening the Bureau's EEO program;
- Using the QPR process as a management tool to address cultural change, and EEO, diversity, and inclusion efforts within Divisions;
- Continuing to enhance training and development opportunities for all staff; and
- Supporting the implementation of employee resource groups, a mentoring bank, and both executive-level and staff-level diversity councils.

3.6 No FEAR Act training

The Office of Civil Rights recognizes the critical role that training plays in raising awareness and fostering appropriate behavior. In FY 2014, the Office of Civil Rights provided training during new employee orientation to ensure all employees are aware of their EEO rights and responsibilities, are familiar with EEO staff, and are knowledgeable about sources for EEO information. All new Bureau employees must also complete online No FEAR Act training within 90 days of onboarding, and existing employees must complete refresher training annually. For FY 2014, 89.8% percent of employees completed this training. Moreover, all employees are required to complete Sexual Harassment Prevention Training annually, and 88.4% did so.

CFPB provides training to managers and supervisors in order to ensure understanding of individual supervisors' responsibilities under the No FEAR Act laws. During FY 2014, the Office of Civil Rights obtained institutional support for a new and mandatory, two-day supervisory training led by the EEOC Training Institute that covered topics including:

- A History of EEO Laws;
- The Federal EEO Complaint Process;
- Reasonable Accommodation;
- ADR; and
- Management Responsibilities in Preventing Harassment and Retaliation

By November 2014, approximately 85% of CFPB supervisors had attended training with the EEOC, and plans exist to offer additional sessions during FY 2015 and subsequent fiscal years to train all remaining and new supervisors. The Bureau also recently mandated performance management and diversity and inclusion awareness training for all employees.

During FY 2014 and continuing, the Office of Civil Rights also collaborates with other offices to offer and provide in-person training to staff in Washington D.C. headquarters as well as field staff. Anti-discrimination and anti-retaliation training, including information about merit principles and prohibited personnel practices, is incorporated into structured interviewing, new supervisor, and other training modules presented by OHC. Additionally, the Office of Civil Rights and OMWI arranged in FY 2014 for internal presentations on topics including disability rights, providing reasonable accommodation, the Part 1614 Complaint Process, retaliation prevention, preventing and responding to harassment, avoiding age discrimination claims, unconscious bias, diversity awareness, and complying with EEO laws when hiring.

In FY 2014, the Office of Civil Rights also worked closely with OMWI and the External Affairs (EA) Division to provide opportunities for public and private sector leaders to address the CFPB workforce in support of heritage month celebrations, including Hispanic Heritage, Native American, African American History, Women's History, Asian Pacific American Heritage, and LGBT Pride.

APPENDIX B:

The Director's EEO Statement (April 2014)

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's (CFPB) policy is to provide equal employment opportunity (EEO) to all employees and applicants for employment.

At the Bureau, we are all protected by federal EEO laws and are entitled to work in an environment where employees and applicants for employment are evaluated solely on the basis of merit and not based on race, color, disability, religion, national origin, age (40 and over), sex (including pregnancy, sex stereotyping, and gender identity or expression), genetic information, or prior EEO activity. Similarly, other laws and Executive Orders are designed to protect federal employees and applicants from discrimination based on sexual orientation, marital status, parental status, political affiliation, military status, membership in a labor organization or union activities, whistleblower status, or any other non-merit based factor protected by federal law.

Quite simply, these legal safeguards boil down to one thing: we all deserve to work in an environment where we can and should expect to be treated fairly and equitably, and where we can participate fully in all benefits of employment, including without limitation recruitment, hiring, compensation, appraisals, awards, training, career development, and promotions.

The Bureau supports the right of any employee who believes they have been discriminated against or harassed to exercise fully their right to file a complaint, or oppose unlawful discrimination or harassment, without fear of retaliation. The CFPB has zero tolerance for workplace discrimination, harassment, or retaliation, and takes all allegations of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation seriously. As Bureau employees, it is up to each one of us to ensure we understand and adhere to these principles. Each one of us will be held accountable for compliance with EEO laws and merit system principles and policies and for treating colleagues with respect, dignity, and professionalism.

Employees who believe they have experienced prohibited conduct should immediately contact the Office of Equal Employment Opportunity at 202-435-9EEO, 1-855-233-0362, 202-435-9742 (TTY) or CFPB_EEO@cfpb.gov or review

http://team.cfpb.local/wiki/index.php/Equal\_Employment\_Opportunity. These resources provide important information about how to file a claim, including time limits and where to file.

Managers and supervisors are also reminded of their special responsibility to prevent, document, and promptly correct harassing conduct in the workplace. I expect managers to immediately contact the Lead - Employee and Labor Relations, in the Office of Human Capital at (202) 435-7655 if they believe they have potentially or actually witnessed or have received information about any such behavior, whether by any CFPB managers, employees, or contractors.
